Manufacturers and wholesale distributors generate tens of millions of critical AR/AP documents every day. The challenge is to gather together all the different media—electronic, paper, and microfilm—from widespread locations, merge it, organize it, and then make it available to the people who need it ASAP. It's a nearly impossible task.

Dealing with the Financial Cost

Managing all this information carries a financial cost as well. In business, time really is money. You want to receive customer payments promptly and have all the necessary documentation in place to pay valued suppliers on time. Any interruption in the process, any inefficiency, increases your expenses. But there is a solution.

WebXpress: A Repository of Every Document

"Imagine a huge, off-site, completely secure repository of every document ever produced by your organization. That's WebXpress," said Steve Manske, ABT Managing Partner. WebXpress is an innovative service that converts documents to a digital format, and then archives, indexes, and makes that information available to the people who need it. Once the information is stored, it's easy to locate documents related to any transaction from a single index reference. In addition, WebXpress allows you to distribute archived reports and images to multiple destinations in a secure environment with permissions that control access to specific documents or groups of documents.

Controlled and Secure Access 24/7

ABT converts statements, invoices, packing lists, checks, purchase orders and more to a digital format and posts them on a password-protected internet website. Administrators and authorized users can search, access, and display the documents remotely on almost any computer using a standard web browser. This gives you controlled, secure, permissioned, electronic access to all documents tied to any AR or AP transaction 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Customer-focused Records Management

WebXpress puts vital documents in the hands of the people who need them, when they need them, and where they need them. Plus, many businesses allow their own clients to use WebXpress as an on-demand "self service" AR/AP payment resolution kiosk. Users report dramatic improvements in customer service and Payables/Receivables resolution. And because the documents are stored and backed-up at ABT's WebXpress hosting facility in San Diego, Calif., the information is both safe and secure.

No New Hardware, No Special Training

ABT's "zero workstation impact" means that WebXpress information is available through almost any PC using a standard web browser. No special hardware or software is needed. And there's no special commitment of time, energy, or IT resources. Also, the interface can be customized with your company's own "look and feel," so it becomes a seamless part of your business. And it's "point and click" simple, so only minimal training is required.
